

Saturday Special Sale of Turkish Towels

Regular 30c Values, 19c Each

There are times when Towel manufacturers want cash more than left-over lots. This is one of the times and we took all that one of the best makers had in Bath Towel Seconds at this price. They are all good Turkish Towels, but each one has some little spot or some other slight imperfection that makes no difference to its usefulness. That is why they are priced at so much less than their regular value.

EAST BARRE

There will be special Labor day service in the Congregational church on Sunday morning at 10:30. Special music has been arranged and the public is cordially invited to attend.

Schools will open Tuesday, Sept. 7, with the same quota of teachers as last year.

Miss Catherine O'Leary of Franklin street, who has been visiting in Woodbury for the past few days, has returned to her home.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Attridge of 101 South Main street left this morning for Boston, where they will spend a week visiting friends and relatives while on a vacation.

D. E. Weafer of Windsor, who has been visiting Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Weafer of Academy street for the past few days, left to-day for his home.

Mrs. W. D. Smith, son, Carroll, and daughter, Eva, left this morning by auto for Greensboro, where they will visit in camp over Labor day.

Kenneth Nutbrown, who has been engaged as a driver of the Hardwick stage during the summer, has completed his duties there and began work this morning for H. P. Cutler & Son in the Palace garage on North Main street.

John Bossi and Paul Scampini returned home last night from Boston, where they have been making a combined business and pleasure trip for a few days. They attended both the "Graves" games yesterday and Wednesday.

Sherman Parker of Spaulding street returned this morning from Sheldon Junction, where he has been attending the fair.

A surprise party was given to Miss Kathleen Miles at her home, 16 West street, last evening when about a dozen girl friends gathered there in the early evening. It was a farewell party, as Miss Miles soon leaves for Boston, where she will enter the Bryant & Stratton business college to study during the winter. Cards, in the form of 500, were played. Miss Irene Gray getting the highest percentage and Miss Claire Miles the lowest. Solos were given by Misses Mildred Cashen and Eunice McLaughlin and Miss Annie McCarthy assisted on the piano, as well as giving several piano solos. Refreshments of ice cream, cake, wafers and candy were served.

Lovers of music will have a chance to hear a concert at City Hall square Labor day morning at 10 o'clock when the Christopher Columbus band, directed by Peter Gropelli, will give a concert from the bandstand. The band will start from their hall on Granite street at 9:45 and march to the square. Promptly at 10 o'clock the concert begins. A program of eight selections has been arranged and G. Donizetti will give the concert solo, "Fantasia," from "Gemma di Vienna." After the concert the members of the band will leave for Dewey park, where the remainder of the day will be spent at a picnic.

Ladies' silk hose 25c and 50c at the Vaughan Store.

The Italian mission will reopen at the North Barre Methodist chapel Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock. A full attendance is desired.

The choir boys of the Church of the Good Shepherd will hold a rehearsal at the church to-night at 8:30.

For Sale—A bicycle in first-class condition. New tires, nice headlight and baggage rack. Utley McWhorter.

Walter Wood of Dorchester, Mass., arrived in the city this morning for a visit at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Laws of Wellington street.

Mrs. Joseph Cardini, who has been visiting relatives in Barre and Montpelier since the early part of August, left this forenoon for her home in Norwalk, Conn.

Mrs. Pasquale Monti of Smith street, who underwent an operation for appendicitis at the City hospital Wednesday, continues to make steady progress toward recovery.

Well, it is our guess that the Drown Pharmacy serves the best lemon cream sherbet in town. A trial, with mallow cream and crushed cherries—and the empty dish tells the story.—Adv.

Kenyon's auto bus will run to Northfield fair twice daily, leaving at 9 a. m. and 12:30 p. m. Individuals or parties desiring to go may reserve accommodations. Fare, 65c one way, $1.25 round trip.

J. J. Dashner, real estate agent, has sold for P. M. Beckley of Barre Town his large farm, with crops, stock and tools. The purchaser is Thomas Brown of this city. Consideration was $5,000. Mr. Brown has invested for a home and business for himself and family and will take possession at once.

Arrangements for the morning celebration of the soccer football clubs in Barre Labor day are practically completed and the indications are that the Berlin street park will be a popular spot for sport lovers. A soccer match between the Rangers and the Bonaccorsis is to be preceded by a program of running matches. Charles Hawes returned recently from Cabot, where he was called by the illness and death of his father, William Hawes, a former resident of this city, whose funeral was held Monday. Mr. Hawes was born in Wolcott in 1859, and at the age of 20 he married Della C. Jones of Waterbury. He was a carpenter by trade and came to Barre to reside in 1884, following his trade in this vicinity for some years. In 1904 he moved to Cabot and took up his residence with his son, Gordon J. Hawes. The deceased leaves his wife and two sons.

Raymond McLeod of St. Albans, who has been acting as ticket agent at the Central Vermont station here for the past month, was notified to-day of his approaching transfer from Barre to Bolton, where he will represent the railroad company as its station agent. Bolton is one of the heavy shipping points among the smaller stations along the main line, owing to the influx of lumber and produce consignments from the surrounding territory and the duties of an agent are therefore very exacting. Miss Lillian Roberts, who has been passing several weeks in Canada, Belfast, Me., and at her former home in Vinal Haven, Me., will resume her duties as ticket agent Monday.

It was Richard Churchill, and not Mr. and Mrs. Churchill, as stated in yesterday's Times, who had been visited by Mr. and Mrs. Omer V. Churchill of Canton, N. Y.

Around 30 members of the Skidoo club and their invited friends gathered at the Pearson farm last evening and enjoyed a corn roast. Beside the corn there were several other "eats," including apples, candy and watermelons. On the fire a kettle was set to boil, and coffee and doughnuts were also served. Games and outdoor sports were enjoyed and to the music of singing a Portland fancy dance was gone through with.

Enrico Cerasoli of Bolster place, a granite cutter, who received a painful ankle fracture while working at the Brown & Carroll plant off Depot square Wednesday, continues to make steady progress toward recovery at the City hospital, and unless unforeseen complications occur, he will be able to return to his home within a short time, although several weeks must elapse before he can walk on his right leg.

A Land of Milk and Honey.

A year ago, when one nation after another was entering the war, people of this country looked on in amazement. The war was looked upon as the moral fall of our European neighbors. We did Europe the favor of setting aside a day to pray for peace, any kind of peace—we left the details of it to the Almighty—only so that our fellow human creatures were saved from the evil of war. We exhausted ourselves denouncing war, and were not a little proud to find that we alone among the great nations of earth were virtuously peaceful.

During the year our national temper has changed. We have had to recognize the courage, devotion and exalted enthusiasms generated among the belligerent nations by this conflict. When once in a while we have had an intimation of what Europeans were fighting for our own amusement, commiseration, and case appeared rather unsatisfying to us. And when our national self-respect and rights as a neutral people seemed about to be caught and run over in the ruthless mechanism of Europe's war we found that we, too, could be patriotic. We realized that we were not less sensitive to nationalist appeals than the Europeans whom we had denounced and prayed for. It was revealed to us that we were much like the rest of the human family, quite as capable of receiving a national insult, just as prone to show our anger if our rights were threatened, just as willing to fight for the dignity of our country as any other people. But along with these revelations about ourselves there has suddenly come another, that of our inability to put our resentment into action. We can find little cause for moral superiority in the enjoyment of peace knowing well we are unprepared to go to war even if we wanted to.

We have suddenly gained a vision of our nation in a light in which Americans have never seen it before. We see it as fat, case loving, soft, complacent, given to sentimentalism, and being too proud to fight, short of breath, and out of training for the real struggles of this partially hospitable earth—altogether an easy mark for any one who cared to take advantage of our bumptiousness and call on us to make our big speeches good.

We have long thought of our country as a land of opportunity. For generations immigrants have been coming to our shores bringing little, demanding much. We have thought of liberty as something that could be inherited from the past or pumped out of the constitution. We have thought of our national dignity as something that all the world would respect as a matter of course, we being the chosen people among the modern nations.

Getting and enjoying have made up the bulk of our lives; the need of doing seemed far away. Indeed, our American has been a land of milk and honey. But we are going to wake up to the realization that even milk and honey do not flow in rivers. And as the creature that supply itself with milk and honey and those that guard the supply of honey can sting, so there is no being gained or kept in the world without the security of doing. —New York Globe.

The north store apartment in the Gordon block is being remodelled for the accommodation of a dry goods concern that has leased the apartment. Alterations to the interior, which have been in progress for a week, will be completed within a few days.

Prof. C. F. Moadinger, who conducted a clinic in Howland hall before the state association of undertakers and funeral directors at its annual meeting this week, left last night for Burlington and thence to Brooklyn, N. Y., where he will visit at his home for a few days before proceeding to Philadelphia, where he is a member of the faculty at the Eccles school.

Chief C. B. Gladding of the fire department, who is one of the guiding factors in the hose company organization here, has been notified that seventeen companies are to participate in the state firemen's tournament in Rutland Labor day. There are eight engine companies also booked for the events, but the local firemen are more vitally interested in the field of hose companies that are to start. The Granite City team of Barre is to start a score of men while the quota of the Barre city team has been fixed at 18. On the night before the tournament, Rutland companies and visiting organizations will figure in a parade, an event in which the Barre fire ladders will not participate, as they do not leave for the Marble city until Monday morning, according to present arrangements. Last year the two teams motored to Burlington and took a special train for Rutland at that point and it is likely that the same route will be chosen Monday, although plans have not been definitely made.

MONTPELIER

New Step Taken to Get Road from State to Court Street.

The second chapter in the fight of George D. Emslie, the proprietor of the Montpelier greenhouse, for a highway from State street to his property located between State and Court streets, has been commenced, papers having been filed in the county clerk's office asking that a court's committee be appointed to determine if a road is a necessity. It will be remembered that a petition signed by some 100 persons was presented to the city council last May, asking that the city build a road from State to Court streets. The request was strongly opposed by Sarah B. Leland, whose property adjoins the Emslie land and after several hearings, the council voted not to lay out a road. To-day a petition signed by George D. Emslie and others was entered in county court. The petitioners request that the honorable court appoint three disinterested free holders as commissioners to inquire as to the public necessity of a street and whether the public good and convenience of individuals require the same. The petition is signed by G. D. Emslie, L. B. Brooks, Fred Chapman, Joseph Brown, Charles A. Smith and W. E. Harlow. Fred L. Laird and Fred E. Gleason are attorneys for Mr. Emslie et al.

In probate court to-day, Mrs. Jennie L. Gay of Montpelier, was appointed guardian of Eva, Lillian, Frederick and Doris Rathbun, minors, of Marshfield. Miss Marion Buzzell, who is employed by the J. G. Turnbull company at Orleans, arrived in the city to-day to pass two weeks with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Buzzell of First avenue.

Santiago Gomez left on the midnight train for New York City, where he sails for Spain for a few weeks' visit with relatives. Mr. Gomez recently received notification from attorneys in his native country that by the death of relatives he had come into a legacy of about $8,000. It is necessary that he visit Spain to take charge of the matter, but he intends to return to this city in the spring.

Elmer Pierce of Dowling street, employed in the Farrar restaurant, will be detained from his duties for a few weeks as the result of a severe injury to his left shoulder. While he was working early this week the top of the ice chest struck his shoulder, causing a slight fracture of the bone.

Mrs. Sarah Mason of Delaware, G., who has been visiting her uncle, City Attorney George L. Hunt, for several weeks, left last evening for her home.

Daniel Roach of Barre street leaves to-night for New York City to meet his vaudeville partner, Mr. McCurdy. They will go to St. Louis, where they start on the Keith circuit with a new act. Mr. Roach passed the summer in this city with his family.

Miss Louise Bernadine of 73 Main street returned last evening from York Beach, Me., where she passed a month, following an extended visit with relatives in Concord, N. H., and Boston.

Chairman Robert W. Simonds of the industrial board and Miss Laura Burbank, the clerk of the board, went to-day to their homes in St. Johnsbury to pass a few days.

Contractor James E. Cashman of Burlington will start work on the erection of the steel and cement bridge on State street as soon as the steel arrives in Montpelier. Nothing can be done until the steel is here as it is necessary that the work progress without interruption once it is started because of the fact that the street will have to be closed, causing considerable inconvenience.

WATERBURY

Clara Marie Corse and Roy Parsons Married at the Center.

The wedding of Clara Marie Corse and Roy Parsons was solemnized on the lawn at Waterbury Center Wednesday evening before a company of relatives and friends from Warren, Crossett hill, and the Center. The scheme of decoration was artistic, hedges being made of spruce trees for part of the screening. A high row of sweet peas also added to the beauty. The single ring service by Rev. W. F. Hill was under an evergreen arch lit with electric lights. Dozens of Japanese lanterns added to the scene. The presents were displayed in a tent, and refreshments were served on the grounds. The bride and groom were attended by Miss Rose Gibson, Dan Corse, Miss Maude DeCelle and Arthur Parsons. The ushers were Miss Maude McMullin and Miss Lois Alger. Mrs. Homer Ferman presided at the organ. The bride was gowned in white messaline and carried sweet peas. Mrs. Clair Moody presided at the punch bowl and with Mrs. Della Robinson had charge of the refreshments. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Christopher Corse of Waterbury Center and has been a popular teacher. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Azro Parsons of Warren and much liked. After a wedding trip, they are to reside at Bonafort farm.
